

A NEW FEDERAL BOTTOM-UP POLICY MODEL: THE DEFENSE MANUFACTURING COMMUNITY SUPPORT PROGRAM AND BEYOND

Last Modified on 11/02/2022 11:58 am EDT

The federal government is building a national industrial policy that includes funding new regional manufacturing community competitions. One of the first of these federal programs is the Defense Manufacturing Communities Support Program where DOD has already designated 17 American regions to take steps to strengthen their regional defense industrial base ecosystems in concert with Manufacturing USA Institutes. Hear directly from leaders and practitioners about what this program means and how you might be able to collaborate with them and others like them across the country.
